A delightful and unique property built in 1889 as the chapel for the local Nicholson Estate. It has since been beautifully converted and modernised by the current owners, turning it into a truly individual home blending period character with modern comfort. With its striking brick and flint elevations, elegant stained-glass windows, and distinctive bell tower, this home radiates charm and a deep sense of history. It sits in a secluded, tranquil setting with lovely views over fields, and is well-placed for the road network and access to Petersfield, Alton and Alresford.

The property offers versatile and well-presented accommodation across two floors. An oak door opens to an enclosed porch and into the welcoming entrance hall, with a cloakroom and boiler room. The kitchen/breakfast room features a bespoke Neptune kitchen with granite worktops, an AGA and French doors to the garden, creating a balance of style and practicality. A fourth bedroom, currently used as a study, is ideal for working from home or guest use.

The impressive reception space combines a sitting and dining area with original block flooring, a log burner, and a feature raised seating area, illuminated by a spectacular stained-glass triptych. Windows overlook the garden, and French doors open to the outside terrace. A passage leads to a light and airy garden room, with its own access to the garden. Oak stairs lead up to a spacious landing, where there is a modern shower room and views over the garden. The spacious main bedroom features twin built-in wardrobes, an en-suite bathroom with separate bath and shower, and far-reaching countryside views.

There are two further double bedrooms, both having built-in wardrobes.

The gardens and grounds are a particular highlight, thoughtfully landscaped with terraced and paved areas ideal for outdoor dining and entertaining. Well-stocked borders and vibrant beds provide seasonal colour, all set against the backdrop of sweeping countryside views. There is parking, with space for a garage if desired - plans have been professionally drawn up to show potential layout and siting.
